One day, Snowflake the mouse was outside in the snow. He was having a blast! He was rolling around and playing with his friends. After a while, he started to feel like something wasn't right. His nose started to get red and hurt. He grabbed the doorknob and ran inside as fast as he could. His mom put him in front of the fireplace so she could look at his nose and hands with a magnifying glass. "Oh no!" said Snowflake's mom. "You've got sunburn!"
