

Read the sentences. Answer each question with the correct answer.

Once there was a newborn bedbug. He was small and thin. He lived in a house near a windmill. When the newborn bedbug got old enough, he started off on his own. The bedbug went in search of a new home. He followed the railroad for many days until he finally reached a beautiful honeycomb. This is where he finally decided to raise his flagpole and create his home.

The bedbug was happy in his new home, but he soon realized that there was a problem. The honeycomb was full of potholes, and it made it difficult for him to move around. He knew he had to find a solution soon.

What solution could the bedbug use to solve his pothole problem?

Describe the newborn bedbug.

How far do you think the bedbug traveled down the railroad? Why?

Where was the bedbug's first home?