giraffes

Elephants and giraffes are both big animals. They both live in Africa and eat plants. Elephants and giraffes both have four legs and tails. These animals can both be seen in zoos. Elephants have long trunks, while giraffes have long necks. Elephants are gray and have thick skin, but giraffes are spotted and have thin fur. Elephants use their trunks to grab food, and giraffes use their long tongues. Elephants make loud trumpet sounds, while giraffes are very quiet.
