

Circle the punctuations in the passage. Then use tally marks to count how many of each in the box provided.

Max's birthday party was about to begin. "Where did I put the cake?" Mom asked as she looked around the kitchen. She checked the refrigerator, but it wasn't there! Dad came into the room and said, "I haven't seen it, but I'll help you look."

Max's little sister, Lily, walked in with chocolate on her face. "Hi everyone, what's going on?" she asked innocently.

Mom looked at Lily and smiled. "Lily, do you know anything about the missing cake?"

"Well," Lily replied, "I was hungry, and it looked so delicious! I only wanted a tiny piece."

Everyone laughed. Dad said, "That's okay, but next time ask first."

"I'm sorry," said Lily. "Can we still have the party?"

"Of course we can!" Max exclaimed. "Let's make cookies instead. That will be fun, don't you think?"

Mom hugged both children and said, "What a wonderful idea! Who wants to help?" "I do! I do!" shouted Lily and Max at the same time.

The family spent the afternoon baking cookies, and Max's birthday turned out to be amazing after all!

Circle the punctuations in the passage. Then use tally marks to count how many of each in the box provided.

Max's birthday party was about to begin. "Where did I put the cake?" Mom asked as she looked around the kitchen. She checked the refrigerator, but it wasn't there! Dad came into the room and said, "I haven't seen it, but I'll help you look." Max's little sister, Lily, walked in with chocolate on her face. "Hi everyone, what's going on?" she asked innocently. Mom looked at Lily and smiled. "Lily, do you know anything about the missing cake?" "Well," Lily replied, "I was hungry, and it looked so delicious! I only wanted a tiny piece." Everyone laughed. Dad said, "That's okay, but next time ask first." "I'm sorry," said Lily. "Can we still have the party?" "Of course we can!" Max exclaimed. "Let's make cookies instead. That will be fun, don't you think?" Mom hugged both children and said, "What a wonderful idea! Who wants to help?" "I do! I do!" shouted Lily and Max at the same time. The family spent the afternoon baking cookies, and Max's birthday turned out to be amazing after all!