

The skin is the body's largest organ. It forms a protective barrier around the entire body, senses the outside world, helps control body temperature, produces vitamin D, and repairs itself when injured.

SKIN FUNCTIONS