A CLOSER LOOK AT ACCESSORY ORGANS

Accessory organs _____ or _____ digestive juices and send them into the digestive tract. Food _____ passes through them.

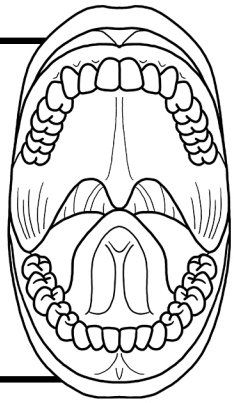

THE ACCESSORY ORGANS ARE:

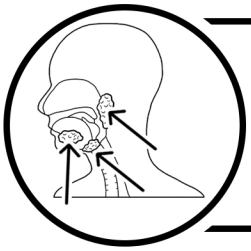

_____

_____

_____

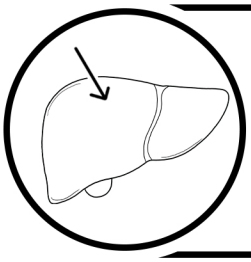

_____

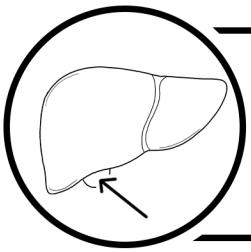

_____

Three pairs of glands around the mouth make saliva. Saliva moistens _____ so it is easy to swallow, and its _____ begins breaking down starches.

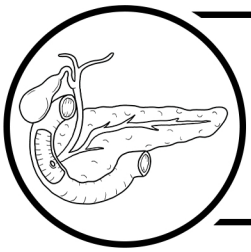

_____

The liver makes _____, which breaks large fat droplets into tiny ones, and sends it through the bile _____. It also receives nutrient-rich blood from the intestines through the hepatic portal vein.

_____

This small pouch under the liver stores bile. When _____ food reaches the duodenum, the gallbladder _____ bile through the bile duct into the small intestine.

_____

The pancreas makes pancreatic juice and sends it into the _____ . Its enzymes break down carbohydrates, proteins, and fats, and the juice neutralizes stomach _____.

acid	duodenum	Liver	Salivary Glands
amylase	fatty	make	squeezes
bile	food	never	store
duct	Gallbladder	Pancreas

Images (c) Color Idea, KA Fonts